

How the Department of Dentistry encourages students to participate in continuing education

Continuing education is an educational training program concerned with the development of students by teaching and training them on professional, life and awareness skills that raise their level culturally, economically and socially to be active members and participants in development. Believing in the need to overcome the difficulties facing this development, our goal is to come up with results that enhance these skills and raise the general level for them to be employees with methods in line with job ethics and a high sense of responsibility, and thus our goal is to create a new generation of students and workers whose first goal is to serve the country and the public interest. The program is a model for sustainable development and the path to lifelong learning.
